ProtectUK

Public Safety Advice

ProtectUK publication date
07/08/2024

There’s a range of safety advice that’s available on ProtectUK for businesses and the public which is applicable whenever people need protecting.

Even when events are violent crime, disorder and criminal damage, rather than terrorism offences, the following advice is potentially useful. Please bear in mind that your local police should always be the first port of call especially if people have any immediate concerns.

It is stressed, there is no intelligence to suggest events on the scale portrayed within the guidance is expected, rather that the mitigations are applicable to disorder.

- National Counter Terrorism Security Office advice about physical security measures and security culture

  NaCTSO NPT toolkit

- National Counter Terrorism Security Office guide to personal security

  The Blue Book: A Guide to Personal Security

- National Business Crime Centre advice for safeguarding your business during public events

  Safeguarding your business during public events

- National Chemical Biological Radiological Nuclear Centre advice about reacting to hazardous materials such as corrosive or flammable liquids

  REMOVE. REMOVE. REMOVE: Guidance on hazardous substance exposure

- National Protective Security Authority guidance about mitigating ‘Fire As a Weapon’

  Fire As a Weapon

- National Protective Security Authority guidance about implementing a ‘Lockdown’

  MTA Guidance: Lockdown

- National Protective Security Authority short video demonstrating how a lockdown could be implemented

  Café Lockdown Drama: Video

- National Protective Security Authority guidance on how to enable the emergency SOS function on a phone

  Calling for help

PAGE CATEGORY

NEWS