

Doors

ProtectUK publication date

24/11/2021

Doors form an essential part of physical security and it's important to have doors and windows that are as secure as possible.

Doors form an essential part of physical security and are often required to perform several functions, including:

- to control access for authorised personnel
- permit an appropriate flow of people/materials etc.
- to work in conjunction with intruder detection systems (IDS), to detect unauthorised access
- to provide a barrier to delay the progress of an adversary
- to provide protection from specific types of threat, such as blast or ballistic
- to provide protection from fire and / or smoke ingress
- to provide a means of escape in an emergency

For more information, please visit the NPSA website.

KEYWORDS

NATIONAL SECURITY

PHYSICAL SECURITY
ATTACK METHODOLOGY
THREAT
NPSA

PAGE CATEGORY
SECURITY